DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hagiwara et al (US 6,839,216).

Regarding claim 1, Hagiwara discloses a solenoid driving drive comprising one or more light emitting devices are connected to a power supply circuit (Vs) to a power source device, wherein a current detection resistor (4) for detecting current flowing through the power supply circuit, the resistance value of the resistor is selected so as to cause a voltage drop equal with a predetermined reference potential when a rated current is supplied to each of the light emitting device (D), and the power source device is provided with a current controller(5) for controlling the supplied current such that the potential for the voltage drop caused in the current detection resistor is equal with the reference potential. See figures 4, 6-13, col.8, lines 30-67 to col.14, lines 1-29.

Regarding claim 2, Hagiwara discloses one light emitting device (D) is connected to a power supply circuit, having a current detection resistor (4) for detecting the current flowing in the power supply circuit, and the resistance value of tile resistor is selected so a5 to cause a voltage drop equal with a predetermined reference potential when a rated current is supplied to each of the light emitting device (D). See figures 4-12, col.8, lines 30-67 to col.14, lines 1-29.

Regarding claim 3, Hagiwara discloses a power source device for supplying a power and a current detection resistor (4) for detecting a current flowing to a power supply circuit in which one or more light emitting devices are connected, and the resistance value of the resistor is selected so as to cause a voltage drop equal with the predetermined reference potential when a rated current is supplied to each of the light emitting device, wherein a current controller (5) for controlling the supply current is disposed such that the potential of the voltage drop caused in the current detection resistor is equal with the reference potential when the illuminating head is connected. See figures 4-12, col.8, lines 30-67 to col.14, lines 1-29.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure Haller (US 6,485,112) and Okawa et al (US 6,157,160) are cited to show a lighting control system.
